

Exceptions to Privacy

1. Oklahoma law requires us to report to the appropriate authorities any suspected physical or sexual abuse or neglect.
2. If we suspect that someone who is participating in our groups has the intent to bring harm to himself/herself, we have the right to inform family members and/or make appropriate referrals.
3. If information is requested from a court of law, we must comply.
4. Confidentiality is explained and encouraged in the groups, but Kaleidoscope can not guarantee that all members will abide by it.
5. Through its promotion and fundraising, examples of Kaleidoscope participant's stories and circumstances might be used, but names will not be revealed.

I understand Kaleidoscope's confidentiality policy. I have read and accept the above exceptions to privacy.
